2019 promises to be a phenomenal year for students and the Penn State community as the University Libraries works to complete three projects designed to encourage student success.

We are excited to share our progress in envisioning and enhancing the future of learning and discovery with you.

Central Atrium: A two-story, bright, open space that will establish new connections between the Pattee and Paterno Library—allowing enhanced access for patrons to best utilize resources and services on different floors.

West Pattee Terrace
This outdoor space provides an accessible entrance to the Collaboration Commons that will improve traffic flow throughout the Library. The terrace will quickly become a signature campus destination for students and the community.

Collaboration Commons
With this multi-functional and flexible Commons, we will provide a maximum amount of collaborative and technology-rich spaces for students to work—all while ensuring efficient navigation between the ground and first floors.
